ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

It was at the School of Theology at Claremont that I first became interested in the church and society. I was beginning graduate work and Professor John L. Mixon, Professor of Church and Community, stimulated my interest in community analysis and research methods.

It was through Professor Mixon's encouragement and assistance that I completed my study. I wish to acknowledge my debt to this most dedicated Professor. Professor Mixon's scholarly interpretation and encouraging help have made a major contribution to this study.

I also wish to acknowledge my profound debt to Mrs. Lois Lyles who has labored untiringly and most efficiently in helping me prepare my material and typing the manuscript. She contributed willingly and devotedly to the arduous task, and I express my great appreciation for her work.

To my wife, who has constantly encouraged me, I wish to say thank you for every word spoken and suggestion made.

INTRODUCTION

The Rural Church today faces handicaps and problems which were unknown to the country churches of a half century ago.

The intent of this study is to take a close look at Methodism in West Virginia.

Herein are presented the statistical data gathered in the study of the churches and ministers of the West Virginia Conference. While these data in and of themselves are interesting to the statistician and researcher, unless they aid in plan-making for strengthening the work of the churches in the Conference much of the effort and time has been wasted.

This study is presented in five chapters. The first chapter consists of an historical statement as to how and why the West Virginia Conference came into existence.

The second chapter deals with some of the population characteristics of the people of West Virginia.

The third chapter provides vital statistics in regard to the West Virginia Conference. From this chapter one can obtain at a glance information that otherwise would take many hours to compute.

The fourth chapter provides a district-by-district account of the vital statistics of the Conference.

In the last chapter a selected portion of the vital statistics which have been compiled is interpreted and evaluated.

THE WEST VIRGINIA CONFERENCE BOUNDARIES:

AN HISTORICAL STATEMENT

"All of West Virginia except the counties of Jefferson, Berkeley, Morgan; Part of Garrett County, Maryland."<sup>1</sup>

The question of the worth of individuals has from the very beginning of American Methodism created a great deal of discussion. It was this very question that caused a division within the Methodist Episcopal Church.

At the 1844 General Conference, the recognition of Bishop James O. Andrew as a General Superintendent was the main topic of discussion.

Bishop Andrew, through marriage and gifts, had become a slave owner. Under Georgia law, an individual was prohibited to free slaves. The Methodist Discipline has always stated that it was wrong to own slaves. Because of this it would be difficult for him to serve as General Superintendent in various sections of the church. This debate lasted for some time. After much discussion the Conference voted 100 to 68 to suspend Bishop Andrew.

On June 5th, fifty-two delegates from the South, with the exception of the delegate from Illinois, made the following statement:

The delegates of the Conference from the slaveholding States take leave to declare to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, that the continued agitation on the subject of slavery and abolition in a portion of the Church, the frequent action on that subject in the General Conference, and especially the extra-judicial proceedings against Bishop Andrew, which resulted on Saturday last in the virtual suspension of him from office as Superintendent, must produce a state of things in the South which renders a continuance of the jurisdiction of this General Conference over those Conferences inconsistent with the success of the Ministry in the slaveholding States.<sup>2</sup>

This statement was referred to a committee. The committee was instructed by the Conference to create a plan for the division of the Church.

Two days later the committee came up with a plan which provided for the division of the assets of the denomination, particularly the property of the Book Concern.

The southern delegates called for the Southern Conferences to meet in Louisville in May, 1845. This was approved. They then quickly elected delegates. Out of the Conference came a new denomination. Below is the resolution that came out of the Conference.

It is right, expedient, and necessary to erect the Annual Conferences represented in this Convention into a distinct ecclesiastical connection, separate from the jurisdiction of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as at present constituted, and accordingly we do solemnly declare the jurisdiction of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church entirely dissolved, and that said Annual Conferences shall be, and hereby are, constituted a separate ecclesiastical connection under the provisional Plan of Separation to be known by the style and title of The Methodist Episcopal Church, South.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>3</sup>James Monroe Buckley, A History of Methodism in the United States (New York: Harper and Brothers, 1898), II, 109 ff.

The first General Conference of this new Conference was held in Petersburg, Virginia, in May, 1846. Bishop Andrew and Soule became a part of the Southern Church.

The Southern Methodist Church at its beginning was composed of thirteen Annual Conferences. They had 1,519 traveling preachers, and about 459,569 members. Nearly 124,961 of the members were Negroes.

Twenty-three Conferences remained in the Methodist Episcopal Church. They held a General Conference in 1848. The Conference did not accept the declaration of separation. It refused to divide the assets of the Book Concern, and would not receive the fraternal delegate from the Southern General Conference.

The property issue had to be resolved by the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court ruled that the Plan of Separation was valid. It ordered that the Southern Church share the assets of the Book Concern.

There were no fraternal relations between the two General Conferences until 1874. This initiative was made by the Northern Church.

Western Virginia showed great sympathy for the southern position on slavery. When this controversy was resolved in the General Conference of 1844, the Kanawha District which bordered the Ohio River and the state of Kentucky, became a sore spot.

The area originally was included in the Ohio District of the Western Conference. The Western Conference was divided in 1812, and it became a part of the Kentucky District of the Ohio Conference.

The new Kentucky Conference in 1821 records Kanawha as one of five Districts of that Conference.

Later, when the Pittsburgh Conference was formed in 1825, the Kanawha District was transferred from Kentucky to the Ohio Conference.

It remained in that Conference until 1848.

In 1845, the people in the Parkersburg Station, an appointment of the Kanawha District, would not accept the minister sent to them by the Ohio Conference.

In 1846, two sets of preachers and two presiding elders were named for the appointments of the Kanawha District--one set from the Ohio Conference, and the other from the Kentucky Conference.

The Kentucky Conference stated that the vote of the congregation had authorized the taking over of the District. The Ohio Conference held that a single congregation and District had no privilege of choice.

The Kentucky Conference adhered to the Methodist Church, South, in the division of the Church. The Ohio Conference adhered North.

This contention reached high quarters in the Church, and was one of the main instances of violation of the Plan of Separation by the southern Church, cited by the Northern General Conference of 1848 as invalidating the Plan.

At the General Conference of 1847, in Pittsburgh, a proposal was presented to divide the Conference and set off a Western Virginia Conference. This was voted down.

At that time all the Clarksburg District, and part of the Wheeling and Morgantown District of the Pittsburgh Conference, lay in Western Virginia.

During the ensuing year it was evident that some action was required if the unity of Methodism in Western Virginia was to be preserved. This was not only true in regard to the Kanawha District, but all of Methodism in the region. The following statement by the senior pastor of the Marion Circuit, written in April, 1848, reflects this mood.

A major cause which has contributed toward holding certain portions of our Conference in Western Virginia in peace and union with us, is the fact that we had reason to believe that our approaching General Conference would set Western Virginia off into an Annual Conference. Western Virginia will never show its ability to do good until our Church, in its territory, is thrown upon her own wisdom and resources. Let this be done and our preachers will all be citizens, and the noise about abolitionists will cease. A preacher identified with the people will be viewed with less suspicion as to abolitionism, and can more freely and effectively reprove the abuses of slavery, than one coming from a free and distant State.

It may be thought that the General Conference can take no action in the case, since the Annual Conference has acted adversely to a division. But, giving the boundaries of the Conference, let it be entered (provided that the Bishops be permitted, with the consent of said Conference, to set up a new Conference in Western Virginia). We must do this work, or the South will do it for us. There must be a Western Virginia Conference.<sup>4</sup>

The General Conference Committee on Boundaries gave careful consideration to this matter, and made provisions for setting up a Western Virginia Conference to include all of Virginia west of the Shenandoah range. Bishop L. L. Hamline presided over the joint session of the Pittsburgh and Western Virginia Conferences.

This joint session was held in Wheeling, West Virginia. The Ohio Conference in which the Kanawha District was being taken did not meet until September 27th. The reports of that District are included in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1848.

In the division, the churches in the city of Wheeling remained in the Pittsburgh Conference until 1852. The appointments in 1848 gave to the New Western Virginia Conference three Districts: Clarksburg, Kanawha, and Morgantown. The Districts remaining in the Pittsburgh Conference were: Allegheny, Barnesville, Beaver, Cambridge, Pittsburgh, Steubenville, Uniontown, and Wheeling. Statistically, the division effected the following changes:<sup>5</sup>

	Charges	Preachers	Members
Transferred from Pittsburgh to Western Virginia	25	34	8,521
Transferred from Ohio to Western Virginia	12	17	4,114
Total of New Western Virginia Conference	37	51	12,633
Remaining in the Pittsburgh Conference	95	95	30,614

At the twenty-first session of the Pittsburgh Conference, held at Allegheny, Pennsylvania, in 1854, the Western Virginia Conference set off from Pittsburgh.

The importance of the establishment of the Western Virginia Conference was evaluated by Charles W. Smith, writing as editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate in 1891:

When the crash of a slaveholders rebellion broke upon the country in 1861, the majority of the people of Western Virginia stood true as steel to the old flag. The great body of the Methodist Episcopal Church, by far the largest and most influential Church in the State, were as firm as a rock. Though in a slave State, their Church relations were with the North, their literature had come from the free States, and they could not be moved. The people refused to be dragged into secession by the eastern part of the State, and out of the State, and out of the throes of the Civil War came the new and loyal State of West Virginia.

Had it not been for the adherence of the Methodism of Western Virginia to the Northern Church in 1844-1848, and the consequent leavening of the people by the preachers and literature in the liberty-loving sentiment of the North, the story of that State, from 1861 to 1865, would have been vastly different. These influences saved that part of the State of the Union. They had much to do with making it what it was and is. The full measure of these truths will never be written or known. Moreover, the world will never know what it cost the Methodist fathers and mothers in the Ministry and Laity in endurance and toil to bring these things to pass.<sup>6</sup>

CHAPTER II

THE GENERAL CHARACTERISTICS OF THE PEOPLE OF WEST VIRGINIA

This chapter of the study will present data dealing with general characteristics of the population of West Virginia.

Number of Inhabitants. At the time of the 1950 United States census, West Virginia reported a population of 2,005,552. The number of residents approximately doubled during the period 1900-1950. As the following table indicates, there has been a decrease in population during the decade 1950-1960 with a net loss of -7.2 per cent.*

West Virginia Population			United States Population
Year	Number	Per cent Increase	Year	Number	Per cent Increase
1960	1,860,421	(-7.2)	1960	179,323,175	18.5
1950	2,005,000	5.4	1950	151,325,798	14.5
1940	1,901,974	10.0	1940	132,164,569	7.3
1930	1,729,205	18.1	1930	123,202,624	16.2
1920	1,463,701	19.9	1920	106,021,537	15.0
1910	1,221,119	27.4	1910	92,228,496	21.0
1900	958,800	25.7	1900	76,212,168	21.0

The population of the State of West Virginia grew rather consistently with the population of the United States during the years 1900-1940. The 1960 United States Census shows an increase in population growth in the United States as a whole, and a decrease in the population of the State of West Virginia.

Age-Sex Distribution. The following table shows the age-sex distribution of the population of West Virginia, 1960. Women slightly out-

Urbanized Areas. There were in 1960 four urban areas in West Virginia with a population of more than 50,000. However, three of these were part of an urbanized area which crossed state lines. The following table gives the population of these areas:

Urbanized Areas	Total Population of Urbanized Areas	Distribution of Population Of Urbanized Areas

Population of Urban Places. The following table presents the 1960 population for urban places of 10,000 or more. In the 1950 census report, Dunbar and St. Albans were not listed among places of 10,000 or more.

Places	1960 Population

Median Age. The median age of the population is lowest among the rural farm group and highest among the urban dwellers. The non-white has a slightly higher median age than whites among the rural non-farm groups and the state as a whole. The median is the middle case; a median of 28.6 years means that half of the persons are older and half younger than 28.6 years.

---

Note: Dunbar increased from 8,032 in 1950 to 11,006 in 1960.
St. Albans increased from 9,870 in 1950 to 15,103 in 1960.

The State	28.6	29.2
Urban	31.9	32.8
Rural Farm	30.8	23.2
Rural Non-Farm	25.4	25.9

Racial Composition. The vast majority of the residents of West Virginia are native-born whites. Foreign-born whites and non-whites constitute a relatively small proportion of the total population.

	Number	Per Cent
Native White	1,746,481	94.4
Foreign-Born White	23,483	1.2
Non-White	90,457	4.4
Total	1,860,421	100.0

The majority of the foreign-born whites are urban dwellers, while almost all others in this group are classified as rural non-farm. The majority of non-whites are listed as rural non-farm with the rest reported living in urban areas.

Rural-Urban Population Distribution. Approximately one-third of the inhabitants are classified as urban. However, as the following table indicates, the rural non-farm population makes up more than nearly two-thirds of the rural group and more than one-half of the entire population.

	Number	Per Cent
Urban	711,101	38.2
Rural Farm	120,938	6.6
Rural Non-Farm	1,028,382	55.2
Total	1,860,421	100.0

Education. The following table shows the median school years completed for persons 25 years of age and older. The differences between white and non-white and between rural and urban are apparent.

	White	Non-White
The State	8.8	8.4
Urban	10.8	8.8
Rural Farm	8.4	7.4
Rural Non-Farm	8.5	7.9

Occupation and Income. The mining industry provided jobs for over 20 per cent of the persons employed in 1960. Manufacturing was the second largest employer of the workers. Wholesale and retail traders and agriculture were next. Nearly 70 per cent of the non-white non-farm workers earned their living through mining, while only about 40 per cent of the white non-farm workers engaged in mining.

The following table gives the median income of certain groups.

	White	Non-White
The State	$ 4,042	$ 2,025
Urban	4,902	1,962
Rural Farm	2,568	2,143

Population Changes. The following table gives the population by ten-year intervals through 1960 as prepared by the Bureau of the Census. As these data indicate, there has been a decrease in population during this period. The 1964 figure is an estimate, which shows a decrease also.

1900	958,800
1910	1,221,119

CHAPTER III

WEST VIRGINIA CONFERENCE TRENDS

The West Virginia Conference is an exceptional conference, in geographical and numerical size, in inclusiveness of its varied interests, and in quality of its lay and ministerial leadership.

The West Virginia Conference has 592 pastoral charges, 342 ministerial members, 250 approved supply pastors, and according to the 1967 Conference Journal, 200,202 lay members in 1,567 local churches.

The salaries of the pastors in West Virginia continue to rise. In 1960 the total paid to the pastors of the West Virginia Conference was $2,022,540. The total for the past year was $2,496,524, or an increase of $68,302. The average cash salary as defined by the Discipline of the Methodist Church for the year 1966-67 was $5,804.

The amount paid on World Service and Conference Benevolences for the year ending in 1960 was $420,842. The total for the year ending 1967 was $595,642, or an increase of $174,800.

The total paid for all purposes in 1960 was $8,291,576. The amount paid in 1967 was $9,875,357, or an increase of $1,593,781.

These and many other trends can be found in the tables that follow.

CHAPTER IV

DISTRICT BOUNDARIES AND TRENDS

The West Virginia Conference is composed of eleven districts. They are as follows: (1) Beckley, (2) Bluefield, (3) Buckhannon, (4) Charleston, (5) Fairmont, (6) Huntington, (7) Lewisburg, (8) Parkersburg, (9) Romney* (10) Weston, (11) Wheeling.

This chapter of the study will provide information in regard to each district. In the tables that follow, you will find material reflecting information on membership statistics, church school membership statistics, property and assets, the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Methodist Men, and other district organizations.

*Note: The Romney District has a few churches which are located in Western Maryland.

CHAPTER V

AN AREA OF CRITICAL CONCERN

Methodism in West Virginia has many problems before it. It has been said, "No problem will be solved until it is recognized." The West Virginia Conference's specific problems--of ministerial recruitment, of leadership training, of better administration, of interboard cooperation, of lay participation (especially of men)--will have a better chance of being met satisfactorily because of this survey.

I would hope that this study could be used as a "springboard" for wiser and more effective churchmanship across the Conference.

As one studies the data presented in the foregoing pages, certain areas of concern are evident. The area that I feel is of primary importance is ministerial replacement.

A summary statement oriented toward this area is presented. It is expected that the reader will study the detailed data and reach additional conclusions.

This chapter of the study will present material relating to general Conference information, ministerial members on trial, ministerial members effective in full connection, and will conclude with a statement in regard to the replacement needs of the Conference.

---

Note: The data for this chapter of the study are taken from the Conference Journals.

Replacement Needs of the Conference. From the tables on pages 118-119 it can be concluded:

A. Number of terminating pastorates and special appointments

1. In the past eight years there has been a total of 83 or an average of 10.3 deaths annually among the active ministers of the West Virginia Conference.
2. A total of 70 or an average of 8.7 per year have transferred out of the Conference.
3. Eight ministers have terminated their Conference membership in one way or another (other than by death and transfer out).
4. Of the Conference membership, 104 have retired during the period or an average of 13 per year.
5. This makes a grand total of 255 or an average of 33.1 ministers per year during the past eight years whose pastoral ministry has terminated.

B. Number of replacements

1. A total of 127 or 15.8 average per year have been received into full membership in the Conference during the eight years under study.
2. Two have been received from other denominations and 1 has been readmitted into Conference membership--a total of 3 or an annual average of .37 per year.
3. There has been a total of 52 or an annual average of 6.5 transferred into the Conference.
4. The total number of charges has been increased from 570 to 582 so that there was a need for 12 more ministers in 1967-68 than in 1960-61.

5. This makes a total of 182 replacements or an average of 22.7 per year to fill 12 more charges. This is 10.4 less than the 33.1 needed annually for replacement. (The total replacement need was 265, as shown above, with 182 available or 83 less than needed.)
6. Part of this difference is taken up by the increase in the number of charges (570 to 582) and part of it in the number of charges supplied or to be supplied (238 in 1960 and 255 in 1967). During this period, the number of approved supplies has increased from 238 and had gone as high as 328 in 1962, but dropped back down to 255 in 1967.
The number of effective ministerial members of the Conference has changed considerably from year to year as shown by the table. ("Effective ministers" includes those on trial, under special appointment, retired, supernumerary, as well as pastors and district superintendents.)

Note: A study of pages 118-19 reveals there has been a total of 182 replacements or an average of 22.7 per year for the past eight years. It also reveals there has been a total of 265 retirements, deaths (of men in the pastorates), transfers out, etc. This is an average of 33.7 per year. Thus, the Conference has run behind 83 ministers for replacement during the past eight years (265 lost with 182 available for replacement).

Assuming that the number of charges remains constant, the Conference would need an annual average of 22.7 for replacement if the present ratio of charges (582) and active effective membership (343) is to be retained. This is an average of 10.4 less than has been available during the past eight years. If, however, the number of approved supplies (255) is to be reduced it will require additional persons for replacement. Moreover, new churches started will increase the number of charges.

How can this need be met?

If the West Virginia Conference is not to deteriorate into a second-rate Conference it will be necessary to step up the recruitment of young men for the ministry. To continue year after year having fewer well-trained and qualified ministers available for the pulpits of the Conference is, or should be, a matter of concern for laymen and ministers alike.

The Commission on Christian Vocations has primary responsibility for general emphasis to challenge youth to enter the ministry. It may wish to prepare a list of youth who decide, during a Conference Camp Program, to enter the ministry and keep in touch with them until their preparation has been completed.

All that the Commission can do will not get the work done, however, unless every minister in the Conference definitely does everything possible to encourage choice youth to enter the ministry and mission fields of the church. Moreover, this may involve matters of concern for the laymen as well. This may involve the development of an attitude of appreciation for the ministry of the local church in the place of a critical one.

The Board of Ministerial Training may co-operate in the process by sponsoring scholarships for youth in seminary.

Note (continued): It would seem that the problem of replacement needs could be attacked on two fronts, namely:

1. A stepped up recruitment program, and
2. A reduction in the number of charges. This could be done by merging, abandoning, or the combining of more churches per charge.
